Goals This course provides an overview of how modern organisations employ information systems in their day-to-day practices. Real-life cases are combined with academic and popular business press literature. Students that have followed this course will:
 Have a good overview of IT applications and how they are used in organisations;
 Be able to identify causal links between certain IT project/system features and the outcome (success/failure) of these projects/systems.
 Have developed their skills in analysing cases.

Description The course focuses on how organisation can use information systems to improve their performance. It will follow the case-based teaching method. The chosen cases - all from real life - reflect the breadth of the information systems field. The cases deal with issues such as:
 -Resistance to change
 -Enterprise 2.0 tools (blogs, wikis, prediction markets)
 -Outsourcing and offshoring
 -IT- investment prioritisation
 -The strategic use of information systems
 - Customer relationship management
 - The role of IT in mergers
