Course Descriptions Exchange 2017-2018

Course Title Microeconomics: Choices, Markets and Welfare Course Code EBC201 ECTS Credits 6,5 Assessment None Period 1 4.9-2017 X/E L X/E Level Intermediate Contrastic Keedee Keedeeeeee	Course Descriptions E	zxcnange	2017-20	18
ECTS Credits 6,5 Assessment None Period Start End Mon Tue Wed Thu Fri 1 4-9-2017 Z7-10-2017 XE L XE Level Intermediate Tue Wed Thu Fri Fri Coordinator Christian Seel For more information:c.seel@maastrichtuniversity.nl Language of instruction English Goals English Totaling a deeper of this course is to finish the coverage of standard microeconomics topics, and to make a step towards a more formal approach. In particular, you will see how simple mathematical models can be helpful in acquiring a deeper and more precise understanding of economic mechanisms and processes. The course provides a good basis for the discussion of more specialized topics later in your study. The upper optical deepering and extension of the microeconomic topics at analysis and assessment of the resulting market allocation under various circumstances. The appelitive endiments introduce a more analytical approach, substantiated by a number of formal extension of the microeconomics course. The repetitive endiments introduce a more analytical approach, substantiated by a number of formal extensions. Nee internet is the individual choice behaviour of formal extensions. Nee internet is the individual choice behaviour of formal extensions. Nee internet is the individual choice behaviour of formal extensions. The repetitive endiments introduce a more internet is the individual choice behaviour of formal extensions. Nee internet is the individual ch	Course Title	Microeconon	nics: Choices,	Markets and	Welfare
Assessment Period Start End Mon Tue Wed Thu Fri 1 4-9-2017 27-10-2017 X/E L X/E Level Intermediate Coordinator Christian Seel For more information:c.seel@maastrichtuniversity.nl Language of instruction English For more information:c.seel@maastrichtuniversity.nl Goals The objective of this course is to finish the coverage of standard microeconomic mechanisms and processes. The course provides a good basis for the discussion of more specialish for the discusses. The course consists for the discussion of more specialish for under standing of economic mechanisms and processes. The course consists of a brief repetition, and then a deepening and extension of the microeconomic budy annote of formal exercises. New elements introduce a more analysis and assessment of the resulting market allocation under various circumstances. Description The course consists of a brief repetition, and then a deepening and extension, choice under uncertainty and issues of anore analysis and assessment of the resulting or introductory microeconomics, mere elements introduce a good based on the first year microeconomics, ormparable to course. The repetitive elements in the course are are analysis and assessment methods Literature The course consists of a brief repetition, and then a deepening and extension, choice under uncertainty and issues of the f	Course Code	EBC2010
Period Start End Mon Tue Wed Thu Fri Level Intermediate Coordinator Christian Seel For more information:c.seel@maastrichuriversity.nl Language of instruction English Goals The objective of this course is to finish the coverage of standard microaconomics topics, and to make a step towards a more formal approach. In particular, you will see how simple mathematical models can be helpful in acquining a desper and more precise understanding of economic mechanisms and processes. The course provides a good basis for the discussion of more specialised topics later in your study. The point of departure is the induvisal choice behaviour of market participants, the learning objective an analysis and assessment of the resulting market allocation under various circumstances. Description The course consists of a brief repetition, and then a deepening and extension of the microaconomic source. The repetitive elements introduce a more analytical approach, substantiated by a number of formal exercises. New elements in the dourse are general equilibrium theory, basic game theory, industrial organisation, choice under uncertainty and issues of asymmetric information. Literature Textbook: Tadelis, Steven (2013), Game Theory: An Introduction, Princeton University Press. Preaching methods Written Exam For the complete evaluation of this course please click http://ivio-sec. An advanced level of English Teaching methods Viritten Exam For the complete evaluation of this course please click http://ivio-sec. An advanced level o	ECTS Credits	6,5
1 4-9-2017 27-10-2017 X/E L X/E Level Intermediate Cordinator Christian Seel For more information:c.seel@maastrichtuniversity.nl Language of instruction English English English Goals The objective of this course is to finish the coverage of standard microeconomics topics, and to make a step towards a more formal approach. In particular, you will see how simple mathematical models can be helpful in acquiring a deeper and more precise understanding of economic mechanisms and processes. The course provides a good basis for the discussion of more specialised topics later in your study. The point of departure is the individual choice behaviour of market participants, the learning objective an analysis and assessment of the resulting market allocation under various circumstances. Description The course consists of a brief repetition, and then a deepening and extension of the microeconomic due on analysis and assessment of there resulting market allocation under various circumstances. Prerequisites Knowledge and understanding of introductory microeconomics, comparable to course are general equilibrium theory, basic game theory, industrial organisation, choice under uncertainty and issues of asymmetric information. Literature Textbook: Tadelis, Steven (2013). Game Theory: An Introduction, Princeton University Press. Prerequisites Knowledge and understanding of introductory microeconomics, and dusino Wesley, Boston. Evaluation in previous academic year For the complete eva	Assessment	None
Level Intermediate Coordinator Christian Seel For more information:c.seel@maastrichtuniversity.nl Language of instruction English Goals The objective of this course is to finish the coverage of standard microeconomics topics, and to make a step towards a more formal approach. In particular, you will see how simple mathematical models can be helpful in acquiring a deeper and more precise understanding of economic mechanisms and processes. The course provides a good basis for the discussion of more specialised topics later in your study. The point of departure is the individual choice behaviour of market participants, the learning objective an analysis and assessment of the resulting market allocation under various circumstances. Description The course consists of a brief repetitive optiming the first year microeconomics course. The repetitive elements in the course are general equilibrium theory, basic game theory, industrial organisation, choice under uncertainty and issues of asymmetric information. Literature Textbook: Tadelis, Steven (2013). Game Theory: An Introduction, Princeton University Press. An advanced level of English Teaching methods PBL / Lecture / Assignment Assessment methods Written Exam Evaluation in previous academic specialisation Bachelor Economics and Business Economics Specialisation Compulsory Courses Specialisation Emerging Markets For the complete evaluation of this course please click http://iwio- specialisation See Exchange Buchelor Specialisation Emerging Mar	Period	Period	Start	End	Mon	Tue	Wed	Thu	Fri
CoordinatorChristian Seel For more information:c.seel@maastrichtuniversity.nlLanguage of instructionEnglishGoalsThe objective of this course is to finish the coverage of standard microeconomics topics, and to make a step towards a more formal approach. In particular, you will see how simple mathematical models can be helpful in acquiring a deeper and more precise understanding of economic mechanisms and processes. The course provides a good basis for the discussion of more specialised topics later in your study. The point of departure is the individual choice behaviour of market participants, the learning objective an analysis and assessment of the resulting market allocation under various circumstances.DescriptionThe course consists of a brief repetition, and then a deepening and extension of the microeconomic topics that have been discussed during the first year microeconomics. Course. The repetitive elements introduce a more analytical approach, busbantiated by a number of formal exercises. New elements in the course ar general equilibrium theory, basic game theory, industrial organisation, choice under uncertainty and issues of asymmetric information. Exthances students need to major in economics. An advanced level of EnglishTeaching methodsPBL / Lecture / AssignmentAssessment methodsFor the complete evaluation of this course please click http://iwio- sbe.maastrichtuniversity.nl/rapporten.asp?referrer-codeUMPrisourse belongs to the psecialisation in previous academic psecialisation Economics and Business Economics Specialisation Economics and Business Economics Speciali		1	4-9-2017	27-10-2017	X/E		L	X/E
Language of instructionEnglishGoalsThe objective of this course is to finish the coverage of standard microeconomics topics, and to make a step towards a more formal approach. In particular, you will see how simple mathematical models can be helpful acquiring a deeper and more precise understanding of economic mechanisms and processes. The course provides a good basis for the discussion of more specialised topics later in your study. The point of departure is the individual choice behaviour of market participants, the learning objective an analysis and assessment of the resulting market allocation under various circumstances.DescriptionThe course consists of a brief repetition, and then a deepening and extension of the microeconomic topics that have been discussed during the first year microeconomics. New elements in the course are general equilibrium theory, basic game theory, industrial organisation, choice under uncertainty and issues of asymetric information.LiteratureTextbook: Tadelis, Steven (2013), Game Theory: An Introduction, Princeton University Press.PrerequisitesKnowledge and understanding of introductory microeconomics, comparable to course Microeconomics, which is based on the first half of Pertoff J.M. (2004), Microeconomics, 3rd edition, Pearson, Addison Wesley, Boston. Exchange students need to major in economics. An advanced level of EnglishTeaching methodsPBL / Lecture / AssignmentAssessment methodsWritten ExamEvaluation in previous academic yearSachelor Economics and Business Economics Specialisation Economics and Business	Level	Intermediate
GoalsThe objective of this course is to finish the coverage of standard microeconomics topics, and to make a step towards a more formal approach. In particular, you will see how simple mathematical models can be helpful in acquiring a deeper and more precise understanding of economic mechanisms and processes. The course provides a good basis for the discussion of more specialised topics later in your study. The point of departure is the individual choice behaviour of market participants, the learning objective an analysis and assessment of the resulting market allocation under various circumstances.DescriptionThe course consists of a brief repetition, and then a deepening and extension of the microeconomic topics that have been discussed during the first year microeconomics course. The repetitive elements introduce a more analytical approach, substantiated by a number of formal exercises. New elements in the course are general equilibrium theory, basic game theory, industrial organisation, choice under uncertainty and issues of asymmetric information.LiteratureTextbook: Tadelis, Steven (2013), Game Theory: An Introduction, Princeton University Press.PrerequisitesKnowledge and understanding of introductory microeconomics, comparable to course Microeconomics, which is based on the first half of Perioff J.M. (2004), Microeconomics, 3rd edition, Pearson, Addison Wesley, Boston. Exchange students need to major in economics. An advanced level of EnglishTeaching methodsPBL / Lecture / AssignmentAssessment methodsWritten ExamEvaluation in previous academic yearFor the complete evaluation of this course please click http://iwio- secanastrichtuniversity.nl/rapporten.asp?referrer=codeUMThis course belongs to the following programme / specialisation Econo	Coordinator	Christian Seel For more information:c.seel@maastrichtuniversity.nl
towards a more formal approach. In particular, you will see how simple mathematical models can be helpful in acquiring a deeper and more precise understanding of economic mechanisms and processes. The course provides a good basis for the discussion of more specialised topics later in your study. The point of departure is the individual choice behaviour of market participants, the learning objective an analysis and assessment of the resulting market allocation under various circumstances.DescriptionThe course consists of a brief repetition, and then a deepening and extension of the microeconomic topics that have been discussed during the first year microeconomics course. The repetitive elements introduce a more analytical approach, substantiated by a number of formal exercises. New elements in the course are general equilibrium theory, basic game theory, industrial organisation, choice under uncertainty and issues of asymmetric information.LiteratureTextbook: Tadelis, Steven (2013), Game Theory: An Introduction, Princeton University Press.PrerequisitesKnowledge and understanding of introductory microeconomics, comparable to course Microeconomics, which is based on the first half of Perloff J.M. (2004), Microeconomics, 3rd edition, Pearson, Addison Wesley, Boston. Exchange students need to major in economics. An advanced level of EnglishTeaching methodsPBL / Lecture / AssignmentAssessment methodsWritten Exam Perlot evaluation of this course please click http://iwio- see.maastrichtuniversity.nl/raporten.asp?referrer=codelUMThis course belongs to the following programme / specialisation Economics and Business EconomicsCompulsory Courses Seculatisation Economics Seculatisation Economics and Business Economics Specialisation Economics and Business Economics Specia	Language of instruction	English
It at have been discussed during the first year microeconomics course. The repetitive elements introduce a more analytical approach, substantiated by a number of formal exercises. New elements in the course are general equilibrium theory, basic game theory, industrial organisation, choice under uncertainty and issues of asymmetric information.LiteratureTextbook: Tadelis, Steven (2013), Game Theory: An Introducton, Princeton University Press.PrerequisitesTextbook: Tadelis, Steven (2013), Game Theory: An Introduction, Princeton University Press.PrerequisitesNew York and and and the first half of Perloff J.M. (2004), Microeconomics, comparable to course Microeconomics, which is based on the first half of Perloff J.M. (2004), Microeconomics, 3rd edition, Pearson, Addison Wesley, Boston, Exchange students need to major in economics. An advanced level of EnglishTeaching methodsPBL / Lecture / AssignmentAssessment methodsViriten ExamEvaluation in previous academic yearFor the complete evaluation of this course please click http://iwio- sbe.maastrichtuniversity.nl/rapporten.asp?referrer=codeUMThis course belongs to the following programme / specialisation Economics and Business EconomicsCompulsory CoursesBachelor Economics and Business Economics Specialisation Emerging MarketsYear 2 Core CoursesBachelor Economics and Business Economics Specialisation Economics and Business Economics Specialisation Economics and Business Economics Specialisation Economics and Business Economics Specialisation Economics and Management of InformationFree ElectivesSBE Exchange Bachelor Specialisation Economics and Management of InformationBachelor Exchange CoursesSBE	Goals	towards a more formal approach. In particular, you will see how simple mathematical models can be helpful in acquiring a deeper and more precise understanding of economic mechanisms and processes. The course provides a good basis for the discussion of more specialised topics later in your study. The point of departure is the individual choice behaviour of market participants, the learning objective an PrerequisitesKnowledge and understanding of introductory microeconomics, comparable to course Microeconomics, which is based on the first half of Perloff J.M. (2004), Microeconomics, 3rd edition, Pearson, Addison Wesley, Boston. Exchange students need to major in economics. An advanced level of EnglishTeaching methodsPBL / Lecture / AssignmentAssessment methodsWritten ExamEvaluation in previous academic yearFor the complete evaluation of this course please click http://iwio- sbe.maastrichtuniversity.nl/rapporten.asp?referrer=codeUMThis course belongs to the following programme / specialisationBachelor Economics and Business Economics Specialisation Economics and Business E	Description	that have been discussed during the first year microeconomics course. The repetitive elements introduce a more analytical approach, substantiated by a number of formal exercises. New elements in the course are general equilibrium theory, basic game theory, industrial organisation, choice under uncertainty and issues of
is based on the first half of Perloff J.M. (2004), Microeconomics, 3rd edition, Pearson, Addison Wesley, Boston. Sechange students need to major in economics. An advanced level of EnglishTeaching methodsPBL / Lecture / AssignmentAssessment methodsWritten ExamEvaluation in previous academic yearFor the complete evaluation of this course please click http://iwio- sbe.maastrichtuniversity.nl/rapporten.asp?referrer=codeUMThis course belongs to the following programme / specialisation Economics and Business Economics Specialisation Economics and Management of Information SBE Exchange Bachelor SBE Exchange MasterBachelor Exchange Courses Bachelor Exchange Courses	Literature	Textbook: Tadelis, Steven (2013), Game Theory: An Introduction, Princeton University Press.
Assessment methodsWritten ExamEvaluation in previous academic yearFor the complete evaluation of this course please click http://iwio- sbe.maastrichtuniversity.nl/rapporten.asp?referrer=codeUMThis course belongs to the following programme / specialisationBachelor Economics and Business Economics Specialisation Economics and Business Economics Bachelor Economics and Business Economics Specialisation Economics and Management of InformationFree Electives Specialisation Economics and Business Economics SBE Exchange Bachelor SBE Exchange Courses SBE Exchange MasterBachelor Exchange Courses SBE Exchange MasterBachelor Exchange Courses	Prerequisites	is based on the first half of Perloff J.M. (2004), Microeconomics, 3rd edition, Pearson, Addison Wesley, Boston. Exchange students need to major in economics.
Evaluation in previous academic yearFor the complete evaluation of this course please click http://iwio- sbe.maastrichtuniversity.nl/rapporten.asp?referrer=codeUMThis course belongs to the following programme / specialisationBachelor Economics and Business Economics Specialisation Economics and Business Economics Bachelor Economics and Business Economics 	Teaching methods	PBL / Lecture / Assignment
yearsbe.maastrichtuniversity.nl/rapporten.asp?referrer=codeUMThis course belongs to the following programme / specialisationBachelor Economics and Business Economics Specialisation Economics and Business Economics Specialisation Economics and Business Economics Specialisation Emerging MarketsCompulsory CoursesBachelor Economics and Business Economics Specialisation Economics and Business Economics Specialisation Emerging MarketsYear 2 Core CoursesBachelor Economics and Business Economics Specialisation Emerging MarketsFree ElectivesBachelor Economics and Business Economics Specialisation Economics and Management of InformationFree ElectivesSBE Exchange BachelorBachelor Exchange CoursesSBE Exchange MasterBachelor Exchange Courses	Assessment methods	Written Exam
following programme / specialisationSpecialisation EconomicsConnection ConnectionSpecialisationSpecialisation EconomicsYear 2 Core CoursesBachelor Economics and Business Economics Specialisation Economics and Management of InformationFree ElectivesSBE Exchange BachelorBachelor Exchange CoursesSBE Exchange MasterBachelor Exchange Courses	•
Bachelor Economics and Business Economics Year 2 Core Courses Specialisation Emerging Markets Free Electives Bachelor Economics and Business Economics Free Electives Specialisation Economics and Management of Information SBE Exchange Bachelor SBE Exchange Master Bachelor Exchange Courses SBE Exchange Master Bachelor Exchange Courses	following programme /			Business Ecor	nomics	Compulsory	Courses
Specialisation Economics and Management of InformationBachelor Exchange CoursesSBE Exchange BachelorBachelor Exchange CoursesSBE Exchange MasterBachelor Exchange Courses					nomics	Year 2 Core	Courses
SBE Exchange Master Bachelor Exchange Courses		Specialisatio				Free Electiv	res
		SBE Exchange Bachelor				Bachelor Exchange Courses
SBE Non Degree Courses Bachelor Courses		SBE Exchar	SBE Exchange Master Bachelor Exchange Courses
		SBE Non De	egree Courses	3		Bachelor Co	ourses		